Dear Valued Customer,

We are excited to inform you that Avago and Broadcom today announced a definitive agreement under which Avago will acquire Broadcom in a cash and stock transaction that values the combined company at $77 billion in enterprise value. This transaction creates the world's leading diversified communications semiconductor company, with annual revenues of approximately $15 billion.

Broadcom Corporation is a global leader and innovator in semiconductor solutions for wired and wireless communications. Broadcom products seamlessly deliver voice, video, data and multimedia connectivity in the home, office and mobile environments. With one of the industry's broadest portfolios of state-of-the-art system-on-a-chip solutions, Broadcom is changing the world by connecting everything.

Avago and Broadcom can establish industry leadership with the broadest portfolios to address customer needs across the wireless, enterprise, data center, storage, wired, service provider, industrial and home networking markets. Together, we also will have a greater ability to scale with our customers, innovate and drive growth. Avago also has a proven track record of successfully integrating companies onto its platform, enabling increased competitive solutions. In addition, the combination will bring system-level expertise including silicon and software solutions.

The transaction is currently expected to be completed by the end of the first quarter of calendar 2016. Until the close of the transaction, Avago and Broadcom will continue to operate as independent companies. During this time, we are working with our Broadcom colleagues to develop integration plans to ensure a seamless transition for our customers.

Following completion of the transaction, Hock Tan, President and Chief Executive Officer of Avago, will continue to serve as the combined company's CEO. Dr. Henry Samueli will join the board of the company as will another director from Broadcom. In addition, Dr. Samueli will be appointed Chief Technology Officer of the combined company. The combined company will adopt the name Broadcom Limited. Dr. Henry Nicholas will serve in a strategic advisory role within the combined company, reporting to Mr. Tan.
