Over the past 5 years, Computer Associates turned $100 of YOUR dollars into $86†

Ranger believes it has a better way for CA:

Corporate Governance

The CA Way

In its April 16, 2001 issue, Business Week named CA's Board one of the worst in America.

The Ranger Way

Ranger has nominated a slate of independent directors with proven records of performance in software companies and who have strong records of investment, regulatory and corporate governance experience.

Management

The CA Way

Business Week reported in its April 16, 2001 issue that the CA Board authorized the worst pay for performance in 2000:

The Ranger Way

Ranger believes the best way to drive profitability and growth with Computer Associates' diverse group of 1,200 products is to focus sales, marketing, development and service resources around four flexible business groups – each organized around a major segment of Computer Associates' broad range of products.

*“At the bottom of the performance heap, Charles B. Wang of Computer Associates International Inc. (CA) earned $698.2 million from 1998 through 2000 and produced a dismal–shareholder return of -63%...”**

Shareholder Value

The CA Way

Of the top ten companies included in the Standard and Poor's Computer Software and Services Index, CA ranks last on price/cash flow and price/book ratios and next to last on price/revenue ratios as of June 30, 2001.

The Ranger Way

Ranger believes that market segment focus when combined with its plan to achieve incremental growth and an improved balance sheet could significantly improve these ratios and deliver greater shareholder value.
